

Ya'nan Li

Attorney Counsel

Practices: Dispute Resolution, Intellectual Property

Working language: Chinese, English

Introduction

Ya'nan Li has represented clients in many cases of civil and commercial litigation and arbitration, which cover retrial proceedings, prosecutorial supervision proceedings, non-execution of arbitral awards, objection to execution, etc.

She has provided permanent legal counseling for companies and public institutions for years, including a cultural and creative company. She has drafted and revised daily contracts and formulated employee manuals, labor systems and other systems for companies, offered legal opinions and conducted compliance reviews on the drafting of corporate investment cooperation agreements and articles of association.

In addition, she was in charge of or involved in major projects, including the arbitral rules project of the Intellectual Property Arbitration Center under the China International Economic and Trade Arbitration Commission (CIETAC), the review of U.S. "notorious markets", the study on the intellectual property arbitration system and practice of the China Academy of Arbitration Law, and the annual intellectual property report of CIETAC, thus accumulating rich experience.

Remarkable achievements

- Represented an auto leasing company in its application for procuratorial supervision (after the People's Procuratorate of Beijing Municipality had filed a protest with the Beijing Higher People's Court, the judgments of the first and second instances were revoked, and the lawsuit was remanded for a retrial);
- Providing all-round intellectual property legal services and right safeguard services for famous IPs such as "I'm Not a Fat Tiger", "Achai Goji Berries" and "DUCKYO";
- Represented a fund management company v. investors in the arbitration of a fund contract dispute

 (8610) 8451-2800

 liyanan@globe-law.com

 Beijing

- Represented a genetic testing company in an arbitration of an equity investment dispute;
- Represented an advertising company in an arbitration of a contract dispute;
- Represented property owners v. a developer in a pre-sale contract dispute;
- Drafting and revising license contracts for a client in the cultural and creative industry as a permanent legal counsel;
- Translating overseas governmental information for a client (public institution) as a permanent legal counsel;
- Served a Chinese company sued for trademark infringement in the U.S.

Social duties

Member of the Legal Translation Committee, Translators Association of China

Education

- Bachelor's Degree, Shandong University
- Master's Degree, China University of Political Science and Law